“ I’m Patrick FISSOT, History teacher in Carentan, Normandy, a few kilometers from Utah Beach. I was lucky enough to meet Lydia KOHLER WILSON, a few years ago and together, we planned several trips in Normandy or Kentucky for their students or their comrades from France. In 2014, thanks to “Voices for Freedom” program created in Normandy, my students met M. Charlie WILSON and they did a great job, about his memory concerning WW2. Following that program, a book was published where Charlie WILSON was explaining which role he played during the war. In June, 2014, With Lydia, her students and some of “Lycée Sivard de Beaulieu” high school, I was near Charlie when he came back to Utah Beach, for the first time, after his landing there in June, 6th, 1944. That’s certainly one of the most impressive moment for me, my students and all people involved in this project. Quickly, Charlie became a well know veteran, telling his stories to all people interested in. He was invited in all official ceremonies and considered as a hero. He did a very emotional speech, in front of 5000 assemblend students, in Caen. In 2015, he came back to Normandy with Lydia and was awarded with the French Legion d’Honneur, thanks to our great job. Such another emotional moment for him, for us!
Charlie Wilson was a great man, an attentive teacher, a nice person always ready to tell stories, to explain what happened during “his” war. In the name of my students and mine, I would really send all my condolences to his family. I will always conserve his memory, as an History teacher, with my students and also as a WW2 museum curator. A hero passed away, may we could conserve his tribute to our History.

“ I met Mr. Wilson quite by accident. He turned into the Shell station in Mt. Sterling, Kentucky at the same time I did. We were next to each other at our respective gas pumps. Mr. Wilson seemed to be having difficulty getting his gas. I offered to assist him. That is when I found out he was a Veteran. He was such a nice man. This happened about 2 years ago and I have never forgotten the honor I had in meeting this wonderful man. Prayers for his family in their time of loss.
